The Big Hat has returned. From great-brimmed beach-and-shopping styles like the Luigi shown here ($290; ericjavits.com) to short-brim out-and-about, the choices from American milliner Eric Javits frame the face and create a kind of glamour last seen in the mid-'80s (We still love the chic black hat donned by Andie MacDowell in Four Weddings and a Funeral). For more formal affairs, be sure to see the kicky new lines by Siegfried Hesbacher, the "Siggi" at Siggi Hats in West London, who has been designing toppers for the chicest Brits since 1980 (from $700 to $2,000 at siggihats.co.uk).
